FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Acme Brick Company Earns Coveted 2025 “Partners of Choice Award” From David Weekley Homes.

Acme Brick Company is one of only twenty-four companies nationwide that have received David Weekley Homes’ 2025 nationally acclaimed “Partners of Choice Award.”

David Weekley Homes, one of the largest, privately-held home builders in America, implemented its comprehensive supplier evaluation system and its measurement for world-class excellence, the “Partners of Choice Award” in 2004. The unique evaluation platform allows David Weekley Homes to analyze supplier performance in diverse industries, provide feedback, and recognize those truly outstanding achievers.

The National Preferred Partner Survey format consists of two questions with a 1-to-5 rating system for partners and is sent to David Weekley Homes team members who are currently doing business with them in their market. When the Preferred Partners receive their quarterly results, they are shown how they rank amongst National Preferred Partners in their industry as well as the contact information for each David Weekley Homes team member who completed an evaluation for them.

The evaluation process involves a comprehensive system of feedback and discussion that enables David Weekley Homes to measure excellence among all established trade partners and their channel partners. Providers that receive the highest scores throughout the year are presented with the prestigious National Preferred Partners Award.

A total of 118 companies were evaluated this year and 20% percent achieved the designation of National Preferred Partner. Many companies who partner with David Weekley Homes have been recognized as a National Preferred Partner multiple times, including Acme Brick.

Commenting on the award, John Schiegg, of David Weekley Homes said, “At David Weekley Homes, we hold our National Preferred Partners to high standards of excellence. Acme Brick Company continuously goes above and beyond providing world-class quality and service.”
